SEPTEMBER MORN FINDS EVERYBODY READY FOR DUCKS

Edmontonians Are Out in force in Search of Mallard and Her Brood.

SURROUNDING LAKES HAVE MANY VISITORS

Avenues of Egress are Busy Scenes on Opening Day of 1914 Season.

The early morning hours of Tuesday and the late hours of Monday was the time set for a steady and excited outgoing of hunters from the city for their annual outing after old mother Mallard Duck and her brood. It was the first of September, and the open season for duck shooting.

There were scenes of great activity yesterday. Old trunks were ransacked in search of last year's "waters" and from these the outfit in full array was drawn the great gun swatter "that father used to wear." Guns were oiled and top-boots greased, cartridge belt and tobacco pouch filled to capacity and the annual hunting of Edmonton's annual hunters were ready once more for the trials of their lives.

And away into the country they went, some seeking the outskirts of the city on motor cycles, and still others chose the railroad method of travel to get to their favorite haunts. And so it was in the east end lake country the same old story was repeated, the winged mallards and blue-blites had fallen prey to the ever steady aim and fire of the veterans of the field gun.

Others were seen in their traps, and still others in wait for the first break of dawn when ducks by the thousands, fly over head. Business men, bankers, merchants and doctors, all went to the hunt, and the hunting of the hunting sportsmen, and for a few days out of each year, the story is repeated, and probably always will be, just as long as the art of commerce and fine shot guns are manufactured.

And then come the off repeated stories of wonderful feats of the gunner's art and "the biggest duck I ever shot."

ROSA FLANN, PRESBYTERIAN SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER, has been engaged to move their share of the big harvest from western Canada to the shipping ports. Arrangements have been made for the prompt supply of grain to the company's lines it is expected that there will be very little delay in the grain movement this year.

The Grand Trunk railway system has done good work for both the grain grower and grain dealer by steadily increasing its elevator capacity at grain terminals, including Montreal, Port L'Isle, Depot Harbor, Sarnia and Fort William. The company now has grain elevators in every small town in the small country elevator receiving grain from wagons and loading into cars to the huge terminal elevators at Fort William, which handle 200,000 bushels of grain. The prediction has been made that within the next ten years as much Canadian grain from Saskatchewan and Alberta will be shipped to Europe as is now sent via the Pacific coast and the Panama canal as will go to the Atlantic. Indeed giant elevators are already planned for the terminus of a transcontinental rail line surpassing its rivals by reason of its practically level roadbed, would appear to be the natural shipping point for much of the Canadian west.

HINDU PRIEST WHO GAVE INFORMATION IS FOUND MURDERED

Vancouver, Sept. 1. - With the head almost severed from the body, and the legs bound with turban, the decomposed remains of a Hindu priest, Shambhu Singh, were found yesterday afternoon in the woods of the Kitsilano Reserve. Harman with his two friends, Balu and Baloo, have been repeatedly threatened with death and have fled the country for safety information during the immigration authorities during the time the Komagata Maru with its load of 200 Hindus was in the harbor. The razor and knife which found beside the body, the authorities think was the work of those who murdered the priest.

EDMONTON IN BRIEF

Vernon Barford has returned from his vacation and resumes work this week. The duck shooting season opens this month and many numbers of the local numbers have gone after the birds. The provincial game warden, Benjamin Lawton, reports that a large number of decoys have been taken out and although reports vary, he has heard that in some spots at least the game is plentiful.

A number of new villages have been established in the last year by the provincial department of municipalities, making 13 in all since the beginning of the year. The latest to be incorporated is the village of Bow City, south of Gleichen. Highland, west of Hanna: Goose Lake, Cereal, Ratna, and Veteran.

Lorraine is now living at Victoria, B.C. and one time resident of Short avenue here, writes the city commissioners complaining of the treatment of his property. He is pensioned over and over his property is in the care of Mr. Wood not only states that he will be very glad to have the matter attended to at once, but intimates that he would like to be present personally in the workings of the city engineer's department.

Mr. Wood does not state that his opinion, Chief Engineer Lorraine knows him well enough to know what he means and suggests that a thorough cleaning up of this department of the city would be a real benefit. In his letter he states that he has had cause for this complaint and that the department has been slow in getting things in order.

In speaking of this new railway which is to be built from Vancouver to the interior of the province, Mr. Stewart, president of the Peace River railway, stated that work was being rushed on the line and that splendid progress was being made between the two cities.

Over $600,000 worth of work has been done on the line and construction would be pushed along the grade so as to have the road completed within the specified time limit.

In speaking of this new railway Mr. Stewart said that the line would be completed to Prince George by the end of next month and that the line would be open to Lillooet by next spring. Lillooet is between Vancouver and Fort George.

Mr. Stewart stated that sufficient finances had been arranged to keep all the work in full swing until the line is completed.

Joseph Billington has been appointed superintendent of motive power of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, with headquarters at Transcona, Man., vice W. G. McMillan.

Mr. Stewart, accompanied by his family, left for Calvary this afternoon and from there will proceed to Vancouver.
